

Coronavirus (COVID-19) update

During these challenging times, I just wanted to personally update you on the situation and subsequent preparations and actions that Fastbox are taking. First and foremost, the health, safety and well-being of our colleagues, customers and suppliers is paramount, but I also want to update you on the business side too.

We have been, and will continue to closely monitor Government, medical and expert guidelines in keeping people safe and minimising the potential spread of the virus. These include additional hygiene measures and allowing key staff to work from home. We are also minimising the potential contact by keeping visits to, and outside the business to minimum essential contact. Any colleague who shows any symptoms, or has been in contact with anybody displaying the symptoms will be told to self-isolate in line with the Government recommendations.

Whilst the situation is escalating and creating a very uncertain working environment, Fastbox are open for business as usual. UK board mills have assured us that they have plans and practices in place to avoid any disruptions in the supply chain, and supply of Paper and Board will continue as normal. We have 2 separate working shifts and can move colleagues across shifts should we lose some staff through self-isolation. We have a large range of Stock boards available should anybody require urgent boxes or need lower quantities.

These are unprecedented times, and the situation is changing daily. We will make every effort to ensure that you receive the same high standard of service. If you have any specific requirements or concerns, please speak to your Account Manager.

Thank you for your continued support in this matter, and we wish you all the very best in these surreal times.
